SCHEDULE "A"REASONS FOR DESIGNATION*110 Charles Street West: McKinsey and Company BuildingDescription

The property at 110 Charles Street West is worthy of designation under Part IV of the Ontario Heritage Act for its cultural heritage value or interest and meets the criteria for designation prescribed by the Province of Ontario under both design or physical value and contextual value. Located on the north side of Charles Street West between Queen's Park (west) and St. Thomas Street (east), the building was completed in 1999 as the corporate headquarters in Toronto of McKinsey and Company, the international management consultants. The original design strategy included structural and mechanical provisions built into the infrastructure of the building to allow for the addition of a future 4th floor. The project was a business and academic partnership with Victoria University at the University of Toronto. The property is part of a larger land holding of Victoria University.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value

The cultural heritage value of the McKinsey and Company Building is related to its architectural design by the Toronto firm Hariri Pontarini Architects (formerly Taylor Hariri Pontarini), with Siamak Hariri as the partner-in-charge. The project received immediate recognition, including the Architectural Excellence Award from the Ontario Association of Architects and a Toronto Architecture and Urban Design Award, both in 2000.

The cultural heritage value of the site also relates to its contextual prominence. Placed on land leased from Victoria University, the McKinsey and Company Building complements the neighbouring heritage buildings, among them Burwash Hall (opposite), with its low scale, setbacks and application of natural materials.

Heritage Attributes

The heritage attributes of the McKinsey and Company Building related to its cultural heritage value as an exemplary example of architectural design are found on the exterior and interior of the building and in its landscaped setting:

- the low-rise plan, designed as three stories and comprised of two main wings that connect at a three-storey open interior courtyard with natural lighting.
- the application of natural finishes, including the rough and smooth cut limestone applied for the exterior cladding and the chimneys; the copper detailing used for the window sills and the coping, including the canopy marking the main (south) entrance; and the teak and mahogany frames for the large expanses of horizontally and vertically-oriented glazing.
- the exterior landscaped courtyard defined by low stone walls.

- on the interior, the courtyard with exposed architectural concrete, wood and stone finishes; the main floor gathering place known as the “Hive” with its winding stone staircase, stone fireplace and skylight; and the custom-designed built in furnishings from Italy.

The provisions in Section 12(1) 438. of Zoning By-law No. 438-86, as amended, as of March 2007 are not prohibited by these Reasons for Designation.
