Statement of Reasons for Designation

Design and Physical Value

65 Sussex Street North has cultural heritage value as a representative example of Beaux-Arts educational architecture in Lindsay. The building, which was constructed between 1910 and 1911 as a replacement for the older north ward public school, demonstrates the key characteristics of Beaux-Arts educational design as executed in urban areas, including symmetrical massing with a central hall, large banks of windows on upper and lower storeys, heavy cornices and Classical design elements. The school is particularly notable for its Classical entrance surround with oversized Corinthian columns and highly formalized symmetry which is unique amongst early twentieth century schools in Lindsay. The school is also demonstrative of trends in educational architecture which developed and matured in the late nineteenth and early twentieth century emphasizing new ideas regarding hygiene, ventilation, and safety incorporated into school design.

Historical and Associative Value

65 Sussex Street North has historical and associative value in its role as a local public school. Opening in 1911, the school was constructed as part of a general upgrade of educational facilities in Lindsay in the early twentieth century as part of an expansion of the education system and growth in public school pupils. It yields information regarding the development of education in Lindsay throughout the twentieth century. The building is also believed to reflect the work of Toronto-area architect James Ellis who designed and executed a substantial number of educational facilities in the Beaux-Arts throughout the late nineteenth and early twentieth century, including in central and eastern Ontario.

Contextual Value

65 Sussex Street North has cultural heritage value as part of the historic landscape of the northern part of Lindsay which includes a substantial collection of architecture dating from the late nineteenth and early twentieth century. The majority of the architecture in this area is residential and the school is the primary institutional feature in the area, supporting its character as a residential area of the community. The property is also a local landmark as a longstanding public school in the north ward of Lindsay.
