Re: Notice of Intention to Designate
12261 Yonge Street
City of Richmond Hill ON L4E 3M7
City File No.: D12-07496

RECEIVED

(YYYY/MM/DD)
Ontario Heritage Trust

Take notice that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Richmond Hill ("Council") intends to designate the above noted property as a property of cultural heritage value or interest under part IV and pursuant to section 29 of the Ontario Heritage Act, R.S.O. 1990,c.O.18.

And take notice that the Council of the Corporation of the City of Richmond Hill stated their intention to designate said property under the Ontario Heritage Act on June 19, 2024.

A statement explaining the cultural heritage value or interest of the property and a description of the heritage attributes of the property is set out below.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest:

Built circa 1916, the Frank Legge House at 12261 Yonge Street has design and physical value because it is a representative example of the Edwardian Classicism architectural style. The Frank Legge House consists of a main structure with rear and side wings. Architectural features that contribute to the Edwardian Classicism style include the building's red brick cladding, medium-pitched side gable roof with shed-roofed dormers and return eaves, red brick chimneys, pedimented portico on Tuscan columns surrounding a front doorway, rectangular window openings with flat-headed brick and stone voussoirs and stone sills, quarter-circle attic window openings with brick and stone voussoirs and stone sills, raised brick quoins, and the frame flat-roofed south sunroom wing with flat-arched rectangular windows with wood surrounds and stone sills.

The subject property at 12261 Yonge Street has historical and associative value for its association with Frank Legge, who built the subject property around 1916 and resided there until the 1950s. The prominent Legge family were farmers and early settlers in the hamlet of Jefferson beginning the mid-nineteenth century, helped establish the St. John's Anglican Church, and owned hundreds of acres of farmland in the area. Frank Legge built the subject building, lived there with his family for over forty years, and was active in the Jefferson community with his work as a school board trustee and with the St. John's Anglican Church.

The subject property also has associative value for its association with Anthem Records, who rented the building as recording space from 1978 to the early 1980s. Anthem Records is significant to Canadian music history because it was created in part to give Canadian artists greater control of their music production, and for its strong association with the popular Canadian rock band, Rush.

The subject property at 12261 Yonge Street has contextual value for its visual and historic links to the surrounding hamlet of Jefferson. The Frank Legge House was built around 1916, when it was surrounded by agricultural and forested land. Although the surrounding context experienced commercial and residential development in the late-20th and early-21st centuries, the property retains its visual connection to agricultural and forested land to the south. As well, the property has longstanding historic links to the hamlet of Jefferson. The Legge family, who built the subject building, helped develop the hamlet, was part of its church community, and owned hundreds of acres of farmland in the community during the 19th century.
