SCHEDULE "A-1"
OF BY-LAW 09-02

The Winchester United Church
519 St. Lawrence Street (Winchester)
Plan 34 Pt. Lot 22 South of Main

Architectural Importance:

The church has been a prominent architectural landmark in the former village of Winchester since its completion in 1886. Its spire is visible as one approaches the village from any direction. Centrally located at the intersection of St. Lawrence, Church and Caleb Streets, it is an important building in defining the heritage character of the village. Architecturally, it is one of the best examples in the Township of late-Victorian Gothic Revival style as adapted to the Methodist form of worship. Designed by architect J.P. Johnson of Ogdensburg, the church is noted for verticality of its design features: high sloping roofs, decorative gable ends, gothic windows, tall broached octagonal spire, and central cupola. The plan is unique; the transept and nave are of equal size, creating a very large unobstructed interior space. The sloped floor, the semi-circular arrangement of pews, oriented toward the choir loft and pulpit are typical of the Methodist approach to worship, as is the two-story Sunday school auditorium on the East side. The building is built of local limestone and is evident of fine workmanship. The roofs of the spire and cupola retain their original gray slates. The building is in a good state of preservation and retains the integrity of its original design.

Historical Importance:

Completed in 1886, its construction coincides with the 1884 national union of the Methodist movement (union of the Wesleyan Methodists, Episcopal Methodists, and others). The Methodist church, (later united with Presbyterian and Congregationalist churches to form the United Church of Canada) was among the important denominations during the 19th and 20th centuries in North Dundas. The limestone used in the construction of the church was procured from the quarry owned by John Benjamin Baker (located immediately South of Winchester), a source of stone for many of the limestone buildings in the Winchester area. The stone cutting and laying was led by Isaac Johnson, a former American slave, who is credited with developing the potential of the Baker quarry and with having built several other fine stone buildings in the area, including the Baker farmhouse.

Reason for Designation

Winchester United Church:

The Winchester United Church, 519 St. Lawrence Street, is recommended for designation for architectural and historical reasons. Completed in 1886, it is one of the finest examples in the Township of late-Victorian Gothic Revival style as adapted to the Methodist form of worship. It retains the integrity of its original design, in terms of plan, style, material and architectural detail. The church is a prominent structure due to its location and its conservation is important for perserving the architectural and historical character of the former village and the heritage of the Township.

SCHEDULE "A-2"
OF BY-LAW 09-02

The Chesterville and District Heritage Centre
14 Victoria Street (Chesterville)
Plan 35, Blk D, The Unnumbered Lot
being Part 1 on 8R1811

Architectural Importance:

The hall is a simple rectangular brick building, noted for its large central doorway, symmetrical placement of tall rectangular windows on the front and both sides. Details include horizontal brick voussoirs over the windows, limestone coursing at ground-level, stone window sills, plain bargeboards and an engraved date stone over the front door with the inscription "Town Hall 1867". In 1985 the exterior of the building was restored to its original appearance. The presence of the hall, along with the McCloskey Hotel, the community centre and several heritage homes defines what was a "town square", located at the head of the original Chesterville bridge.

Historical Importance:

The building was erected in 1867 as the first town hall in the township of Winchester, years before the incorporation of the Villages of Chesterville in 1890 and Winchester in 1885. Chesterville was one of the first settlements to be developed in North Dundas and prior to the construction of the hall, the Township council had been meeting in local hotels. The opening of the building in December of 1867, marked the beginning of over a century of active use by the community. In addition to being used as a town hall, it served as a school, a division court, a cinema, a theatre for local church dramatic societies, a rehearsal and performance hall for the citizen's band, a police station, a temporary jail, a boy scout meeting hall, and a firehall. It is currently used by the Chesterville and District Historical society as museum, archives and research centre.
