REASONS FOR DESIGNATION

Description of Property

The property at 14 Tweedle Street is a rectangular shaped parcel located on the west side of Tweedle Street in the community of Glen Williams within the Town of Halton Hills. The property contains a single-detached, one-and-a-half storey wood frame residential building constructed c.1905, surrounded by mature trees on the south and west lot lines, with a small contemporary outbuilding towards the rear.

Statement of Cultural Heritage Value or Interest

The property at 14 Tweedle Street has physical and design value as representative of a worker's cottage in the Gothic Revival style in the community of Glen Williams in the Town of Halton Hills. The one-and-a-half storey frame structure exhibits features characteristic of an Ontario Cottage in the Gothic Revival style found throughout the province, including features such as its steeply pitched roof, bargeboard and decorative wooden architectural detailing, and one-storey covered porch on the front elevation. The scale, form and massing of the one-and-a-half-storey structure remains legible with an addition to the rear.

The property at 14 Tweedle Street has significant historical and associative value due to its connection with the woollen mill industry in the hamlet of Glen Williams. Built as worker's housing in 1905 by the Sykes and Ainley Manufacturing Company Ltd., 14 Tweedle Street served as housing through several changes in the mill's ownership until its closure in the mid-twentieth century, including housing for the Sykes and Ainley Manufacturing Company Ltd., the Glen Williams Woollen Mills, and later Glen Textiles. The property also served as housing for seasonal workers for Sheridan Nurseries until it was sold in the 1980s and has remained a residential property since.

The property at 14 Tweedle Street has contextual value as it serves to maintain and support the character of the area, including the modest worker's housing extant along Tweedle Street in the community of Glen Williams. The existing house is physically, functionally, visually, and historically linked to its surroundings, and although the former woollen mill is no longer extant, the collection of worker's housing in this area reflects the growth of the community in relation to the wool industry in Glen Williams.

Heritage Attributes

The identified heritage attributes of the property at 14 Tweedle Street that contribute to its physical and design value include:

- The setback, location, and orientation of the one-and-a-half storey residential Ontario Cottage home in the Gothic Revival Style along Tweedle Street in the community of Glen Williams;
- The scale, form, and massing of the existing building, including its gable roof with central gable at the front elevation;
- The materials, including stone foundation and wooden architectural and decorative elements throughout;
- The front elevation, including:
 - The centrally located entrance with symmetrically placed flat-headed window openings at the first story;
 - The one-storey wooden porch with hipped roof, wooden columns and

- decorative woodwork beneath bracketed eaves, and ornate wooden porch railing above a wooden porch floor;
 - Beneath the gable peak, the single flat-headed window opening beneath decorative bargeboard;
- The side elevations, including:
 - The symmetrically placed single flat-headed window openings at the first and second storeys.

The identified heritage attributes of the property at 14 Tweedle Street that contribute to its historical and associative value include:

- The property's legibility as an early-twentieth century, one-and-a-half-storey residential Ontario Cottage home in the Gothic Revival Style along Tweedle Street in the community of Glen Williams.

The identified heritage attributes of the property at 14 Tweedle Street that contribute to its contextual value include:
