Schedule "A"

Reasons for Designation

The subject property is recommended for designation on the grounds of its design value and historical value and contextual value. Designation is to include the complete exterior of the building, save and except for the rear roof. Designation is also to include the vault within the interior of the building. The two-storey square building, built around 1904, is representative of the Edwardian Classicism architectural style which was popular in Ontario during the first two decades of the twentieth century. The property is directly associated to two institutions which are of importance to the area's history. The building was first occupied by the Canadian Bank of Commerce, which resided at 10 Northumberland, serving the area's financial needs, until 1963. At this point, the building became the home of the Municipality of Ayr until 1972. Lastly, the building is significant to Ayr's downtown core, as it acts as an anchor for the other historic buildings on Northumberland Street, forming an historic "streetscape".
